Term 1

STANDARD
SIX

PREFACE

The English textbook for standard six has been prepared following the guidelines given in the National Curriculum Framework, 2005. It has been created to make English language learning both effective and interesting. The aim has been to balance learning the structures and vocabulary of the language with learning their use in everyday life.

The activities have been carefully graded to allow a gradual building of language proficiency. The lessons provide effective individual and collaborative learning in pairs and groups and enable differentiation in multilevel classrooms. Each unit focuses on the themes of natural and social world to stimulate curiosity and imagination, engaging both heart and mind. An ICT Corner has been introduced in each unit for the first time to enhance digital literacy skills.

How to use the book

- ☛ The First Term English Book for Standard VI has three units.
- ☛ Each unit is planned for a month.
- ☛ Each unit is divided into sections and each section is designed to initiate and sustain the Active Learning process.

Section II

Take turns and read this section aloud. Work in pairs and underline the new words. Find out their meanings from the dictionary.

Between the months of January and March, female Olive Ridleys come ashore at night to lay their eggs. This is quite a problem for them, as a turtle's front flippers enable it to swim gracefully and effortlessly but are not very useful for moving on land. So, it has to turn itself upside down onto the beach. Then it chooses a spot well away from the high-tide line. Here, it scoops out a nest cavity 45 cm deep, into which it lays about 100 eggs. Each egg is in the shape and size of a table tennis ball. Once all the eggs are laid, the turtle fills in the cavity, then it camouflages the nest by tossing sand on it using its flippers. That done, it returns to the sea. The eggs are left to incubate under the warmth of the sun.

Olive Ridley laying eggs

- ☛ Each unit starts with an introduction of the theme anchored by two girls Ayesha and Madhi.
- ☛ The pictorial warm up page will help activate students own knowledge and ideas of the topic.
- ☛ The digital warm up can be used for visualizing the theme to motivate and interest learners.

- ☛ In-Text questions in each section can be used for discussion and to check and develop comprehension skills.
- ☛ Digital glossary can be used for hearing correct pronunciation and visualizing words.
- ☛ The 'Do You Know?' box can be used to enhance general knowledge while initiating spoken language.

We found an island, a small rocky island in a dry river-bed. It was one of those river-beds that dry up in the foothills, which are completely dry in summer but flooded during the monsoon rains. A small mango was growing on the island. 'If a small tree can grow here,' said Grandfather, 'so can others.' As soon as the rains set in and while rivers could still be crossed, we set out with a number of tamarind, laburnum, and coral tree saplings and cuttings and spent the day planting them on the island.

- The illustrations in Picto Grammar will enable understanding of grammar terms in a fun and easy way.
- Digital Grammar Games can be used to reinforce learning and encourage students to learn by doing.
- Language Check Point can highlight points of usage to avoid the common mistakes.

LANGUAGE CHECK POINT
Don't say	Say	Note
Who do you want to meet?	Whom do you want to meet?	'Who' is for subject and 'whom' for object. If you can replace it with 'he' or 'she', use 'who'. If you can replace it with 'them', use 'whom'.
Did not you meet him yesterday?	Didn't you meet him yesterday?	Use contracted form of verbs like 'is', 'do' or 'have' in questions.
How many luggage did you bring?	How much luggage did you bring?	Use 'how many' for countable nouns. Use 'how much' for uncountable nouns.
What colour do you want - red or green?	Which colour do you want - red or green?	'What' is used for unlimited number of choices. 'Which' is used for limited number of choices.

- Students can be taken through all the steps of writing with the help of pictures and prompts.
- Creative writing can be used to bring out their writing skill.
- Students can be encouraged to present or display their writings in the class .

- The warm up picture at the head of the section can be used to discuss the theme of the poem.
- The Focus should be on the enjoyment of the poem through exploring imagery and rhythm.
- The supplementary section encourages extensive reading and appreciation of literature.

- Connecting to Self is based on the values of each lesson.
- Project is meant for working in groups and to develop collaborative learning.
- The development of higher order thinking skills is facilitated by the Steps to Success and Think and Answer sections.

- Students can be encouraged to extend their reading activity through e-links and Reference Books.
- The activities in ICT Corner will ensure acquiring language skills through doing.

Sea Turtles

WARM UP

The Loggerhead

The Olive Ridley

The Leatherback

The Hawksbill

The Green Sea Turtle

Talk about ...

1. Have you seen turtles? Where do they live?
2. What do you know about turtles?
3. Why do you think the turtles in the picture have names such as Leatherback and Hawksbill?

Section I

READING

Listen to the teacher reading this section.

Most of us have seen a tortoise in a zoo or a reptile park. However, not many would have seen its marine relative, the sea turtle. This is not surprising, since these reptiles spend almost their entire life in the sea.

There are seven species of marine or sea turtles in the world. Of them, five are found in India's coastal waters: the Olive Ridley, the Hawksbill, the Green Sea Turtle, the Loggerhead and the Leatherback. Compared to most tortoises, sea turtles are huge. Even the smallest species, the Olive Ridley, weighs up to 35 kg when fully grown. The largest of them all, the Leatherback, grows to a length of 2.2m and each could weigh as much as 700 kg!

The Olive Ridley

Sea turtles live their life entirely in the oceans. But they still have a connection with land – they must come ashore to lay eggs. Today, four of the sea turtle species mentioned above have become extremely rare in India. The Olive Ridleys, however, are still commonly seen nesting on sandy beaches all along our coasts.

Put a (✓) for the correct and a (✗) for the incorrect statements.

1. Turtles are different from tortoises.
2. Turtles are sea animals.
3. There are seven kinds of sea turtles in the world.
4. Sea turtles are very small.
5. Turtles come ashore to lay eggs.
6. Sea turtles come to rest on land.
7. Olive Ridleys are the only sea turtles seen on Indian shores.

GLOSSARY

marine	- found in the sea
species	- group of animals with common features
coastal	- land by the edge of a sea

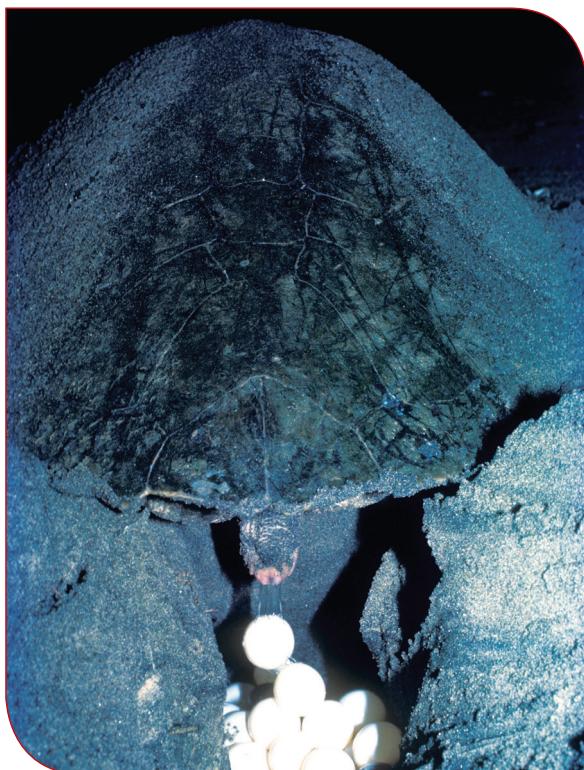

Arribada

In most parts of the world, Olive Ridleys come ashore alone to lay their eggs. However, Odisha is one of only three places in the world where a phenomenon known as 'mass nesting' or Arribada takes place. On certain nights during the nesting season, thousands of female turtles come ashore simultaneously to lay their eggs on particular beaches.

Section II

Take turns and read this section aloud. Work in pairs and underline the new words. Find out their meanings from the dictionary.

Olive Ridley laying eggs

Between the months of January and March, female Olive Ridleys come ashore at night to lay their eggs. This is quite a problem for them, as a turtle's front flippers enable it to swim gracefully and effortlessly but are not very useful for moving on land. The turtle has to haul itself laboriously onto the beach. Then it chooses a spot well away from the high-tide line. Here, it scoops out a nest cavity 45 cm deep, into which it lays about 100 eggs. Each egg is in the shape and size of a table tennis ball. Once all the eggs are laid, the turtle fills in the cavity, then it camouflages the nest by tossing sand on it using its flippers. That done, it returns to the sea. The eggs are left to incubate under the warmth of the sun.

In many places around the world, local people follow the tracks of the turtle to its nest. They collect the eggs for eating. Jackals, domestic dogs and pigs too dig up and eat the eggs by following the scent left by the turtle. Those eggs that escape such people and predators hatch 45–60 days later. The hatchlings slash open the leathery eggshell with the help of a tiny 'egg-tooth'. This is like a razor blade at the tip of a hatchling's snout. When most of the eggs have hatched, the hatchlings push themselves upwards through the sand and emerge on the surface of the beach. From here they make a hurried dash to the sea.

GLOSSARY

- flippers - broad, flat limbs used for swimming predators - animals that kill other animals for food haul - pull with force
slash - cut
laboriously - with great effort

- snout - pointed nose of an animal cavity - a hollow space emerge - come out
camouflage - hide or disguise something incubate - hatch eggs using warmth

Are these statements right? Discuss with your partner and (✓) them if they are correct. Correct them if they are wrong. Share your answers in class.

1. Female Olive Ridleys come ashore at night to lay eggs.
2. The eggs of an Olive Ridley are in the shape and size of a cricket ball.
3. Ridleys come to lay their eggs in the month of January.
4. The turtles use their flippers and make a hollow for their nests.
5. The hatchlings use a tiny egg-tooth to come out of the eggs.

There is an interesting aspect of sea turtle biology. The temperature inside the egg determines the sex of the embryo while it is growing. When the eggs develop at 27°– 28°C only male hatchlings are produced. At 30°C only female hatchlings are produced. An equal mix of male and female hatchlings is produced only when the eggs incubate at precisely 29° – 30°C!

Section III

Read this section in pairs.

Many of these tiny hatchlings, which weigh less than 20 grams each, will not even reach the sea. They will fall prey to crabs or birds even before they reach the water. Most of those that do make it into the water will also be eaten by many predators in the sea within the first few days of their lives. In fact, scientists estimate that only one in every thousand hatchlings becomes an adult. It is perhaps to ensure that enough hatchlings survive to keep the species going that sea turtles lay so many eggs.

After many years of swimming in the open ocean, the female hatchlings that have become adults return to the same beach where they were born. They come there to lay their own eggs. How they manage to find the place after so many years in the sea is one of the many mysteries of these fascinating reptiles!

Olive Ridley hatchling in the hand

Sea turtles are among the many wonderful creatures we share this planet with.

They have survived natural dangers for millions of years. But, sadly, human activities during the last few decades have put them in grave danger. There are many factors that threaten their survival. People hunt them for their meat or collect their eggs. Sometimes they are accidentally trapped in the nests of motorboats. Problems like pollution, dumping of plastics into the ocean and construction activities on nesting beaches also hurt their survival. Only by systematically tackling these problems, and removing these threats, can we ensure that sea turtles will continue to exist in the years to come.

Owlie

'Mom,' Payal yelled in panic. 'Owlie's gone!'

'Where would she have gone, Payal?' her mother said crossly. 'She was right there, sleeping in her cage a little while ago.'

'But she's not there now. And, Mom, the door to the garden is open!' That got Payal's mother running into the room. Sure enough, there was no sign of Owlie.

What was an owl doing in a house, you ask? Well, Payal's house was home to all kinds of creatures, mainly abandoned animals. People brought lost dogs, injured cats and baby birds that had fallen out of their cages to Payal's mother. It wasn't that they had a large farm or even a large house. It's just that everyone knew that Payal's mom had a BIG heart! But even in a household used to such unexpected visitors, Owlie's advent had been memorable. Shefali didi had just turned up one day, carrying a carton.

When Payal's mother opened the carton, there was the smallest of owlets sitting in one corner, a small ball of brown and grey. Payal's mother picked her up gently and placed her in her lap, talking to her just as she would to the dogs. She had never handled owls before, so she was very careful not to get pecked. When the owl got used to her, and seemed relaxed enough, Payal's mother placed her inside a cage. There were always empty cages in Payal's house – just in case a bird dropped in! The baby owl climbed on the rod and settled herself.

'Mom, what shall we call her?' asked Payal, all excited. 'You choose a name,' said her mother, smiling. 'How about Owlie?' asked Payal. So Owlie it was. The name was settled, but there was a bigger problem. What does one feed an owl?

Owls are hunters. They eat rats and snakes and frogs. And in Payal's house, they were all vegetarian, even the dogs! Payal's mother was totally anti-meat. But now that Owlie had come to stay, she had to get over her dislike for meat. That was another reason why that day was memorable. It was the first day that meat was brought to the house! Payal got the number from her friend and called the meat shop to ask them to deliver half a kilogram of minced meat to the house. They put the meat before Owlie.

Of course, Owlie didn't know what to do with it. She was just a baby, after all. If the mother owl had been there, she would have softened the meat and shoved it down Owlie's throat. Payal's mother decided she had to be mother owl! She picked up a tiny bit of meat with her right hand and squished it up until it was soft. Then with her left hand, she pressed open Owlie's beak and shoved the food down. In a second, Owlie fell off her perch on to the floor of the cage. She lay on her back on the floor of the cage with feet up in the air.

'Mom!' Payal cried, 'You've killed her!' Payal's mother was equally aghast. 'Oh!' she said. 'Oh, what have I done ? The poor, little bird!' After Payal and her mother had finished crying and hugging each other, they started talking bravely about where to bury Owlie. Just then, Owlie opened one eye and then the other. She got onto her feet and quietly climbed the perch!

Payal learnt later that falling on her back and pretending to be dead was Owlie's way of defending herself against danger. Not that Payal's mother was a danger to Owlie, but the baby owl did not know that then. So that was Owlie's first day at home.

In the beginning, Owlie had to be forced to eat. That was Mom's job. But Owlie soon realised that if a hand came towards her it meant food! Her mouth would open automatically and her beak would snap around what was offered. Only, Owlie found it difficult to know when she was being offered food, and would try to take a bit out of any hand that came her way. This meant lots of bitten fingers for Payal and her mother.

Reading up more about owls and their habits, Payal discovered that Owlie was a Spotted Owlet. She had the typical grey-brown coat, heavily spotted with white, the pale face, yellow eyes and the white neckband, which looked like a ribbon, Payal decided. Soon, Payal took over the job of looking after Owlie. She saw that the cage was cleaned every day. She filled the water bowl. Once Owlie began to eat by herself, Payal too could feed her. She loved the way Owlie took a piece of raw meat from her hand. During the day, Payal kept the cage covered. Owls are night birds, so they slept during the day. At night, when owls are active, Payal took off the cover. They had decided that they would let Owlie fly away once she had grown bigger. But that meant that she had to learn to fly. To do that, Owlie had to be in a closed room.

After much discussion, Owlie's cage was shifted to the library. It was a lovely room with two doors – one which led to the rest of the house and the other that opened into the garden. It was also Payal's favourite room. It had tall bookshelves and she spent hours there, reading all kinds of books. The bookshelves also had lots of little knickknacks. Her mother loved pretty things, and displayed them here along with the books. So there were beautiful pieces of pottery, dolls from wherever they had travelled, and of course wooden and clay animals and birds from all around the world.

Once Owlie was moved to the library, strict rules were laid down for everyone in the house. The two doors were never to be left open – not at night, not in the day. Every night, Payal would leave the cage door open and put a plate of mincemeat on top of the cage. This was so that when Owlie flew out of her cage, she could also learn to find her food.

Initially, Payal would shut the cage door every morning when she popped in to say hello to Owlie before going to school. She would always find Owlie on her perch inside the cage, though the cage door was still open. But Payal knew Owlie was flying because she found bits of meat all over the room. After some time, Payal stopped shutting the cage door even during the day. After all, people seldom went into that room all day, and Owlie was always asleep, so there seemed little point.

Every day when Payal came back from school, the first thing she did was to peep into the library. Usually, she would find Owlie fast asleep on her perch. But today, it was different. The cage was empty and there was no sign of Owlie! And the door to the garden was open. 'Mom!' Payal howled. 'Who left the garden door open? How will we find Owlie now?' 'Don't panic,' said Mom. 'She must be somewhere around.' They shut the garden door and looked in every corner of the room. Behind doors, on top of the tall bookshelves, in every nook and cranny. No Owlie.

Tears ran down Payal's cheeks. They had wanted Owlie to fly away, but not so soon. She was still so small, how would she hunt for her food? What if a kite or eagle swooped down on her? Finally, Mom said, 'Well, now Owlie has gone, we may as well leave the doors open and air the room.' Wiping her tears, Payal threw open the doors to the room. She hoped secretly that Owlie would come in if the doors were kept open.

Mom left the room to go do her afternoon errands. When she came back a couple of hours later, Payal was sitting, gazing mournfully at Owlie's cage. 'Why don't you find yourself a good book to read?' Mom asked. She knew that reading a book was the only way Payal would cheer up. When Payal was sad, she always read. 'Okay,' sighed Payal, and started looking for a book she had not read.

She noticed a curio on a shelf that she had never noticed before. Hello? Where did this one come from, she wondered. Where did her mother get the owl from? She was about to pick it up when the curio opened one eye... It was Owlie pretending to be a curio! 'Mom!' bawled Payal. 'She's back!' 'Don't you ever give me a fright like that again,' she scolded the owl as she put her back in her cage. Payal swore later that Owlie winked back at her. She probably did.

Vijaya Ghose

A. Identify the character/ speaker.

1. Owlie's gone!
2. She opened one eye and then the other.
3. Don't panic.

B. Choose the correct answer from the options given.

1. The owlet was _____. (brown and grey / white and grey)
2. In Payal's family, they were all _____. (non-vegetarian / vegetarian)
3. The cage was shifted to the _____. (library / living room)

C. Read the passage and answer the questions.

Payal and her mother started talking bravely about where to bury Owlie. Just then, Owlie opened one eye and then the other. She got out her feet and quietly climbed the perch! Payal learnt later that falling on her back and pretending to be dead was Owlie's way of defending herself against danger.

1. Why did Payal and her mother want to bury Owlie?
2. What did Owlie do then?
3. What did Payal learn from Owlie's pretence?

D. Rearrange the following jumbled sentences in the correct order.

- Payal's house was a home for abandoned animals.
- It was a small ball of brown and grey.
- She found an owlet in one corner.
- Payal's mother picked her up gently.
- Payal's mother opened the carton.
- One day they got a carton.

E. Discuss in pairs. Then write the answers.

1. What kind of a girl was Payal? What did she like? How did she behave with animals and people?
2. Do you think Owlie was happy to be with Payal? Give reasons for your answer.

When the Trees Walked

A. Describe the picture.

You can begin like this:

This picture is about ...

In this picture we can see ...

There are ...

B. Discuss and answer.

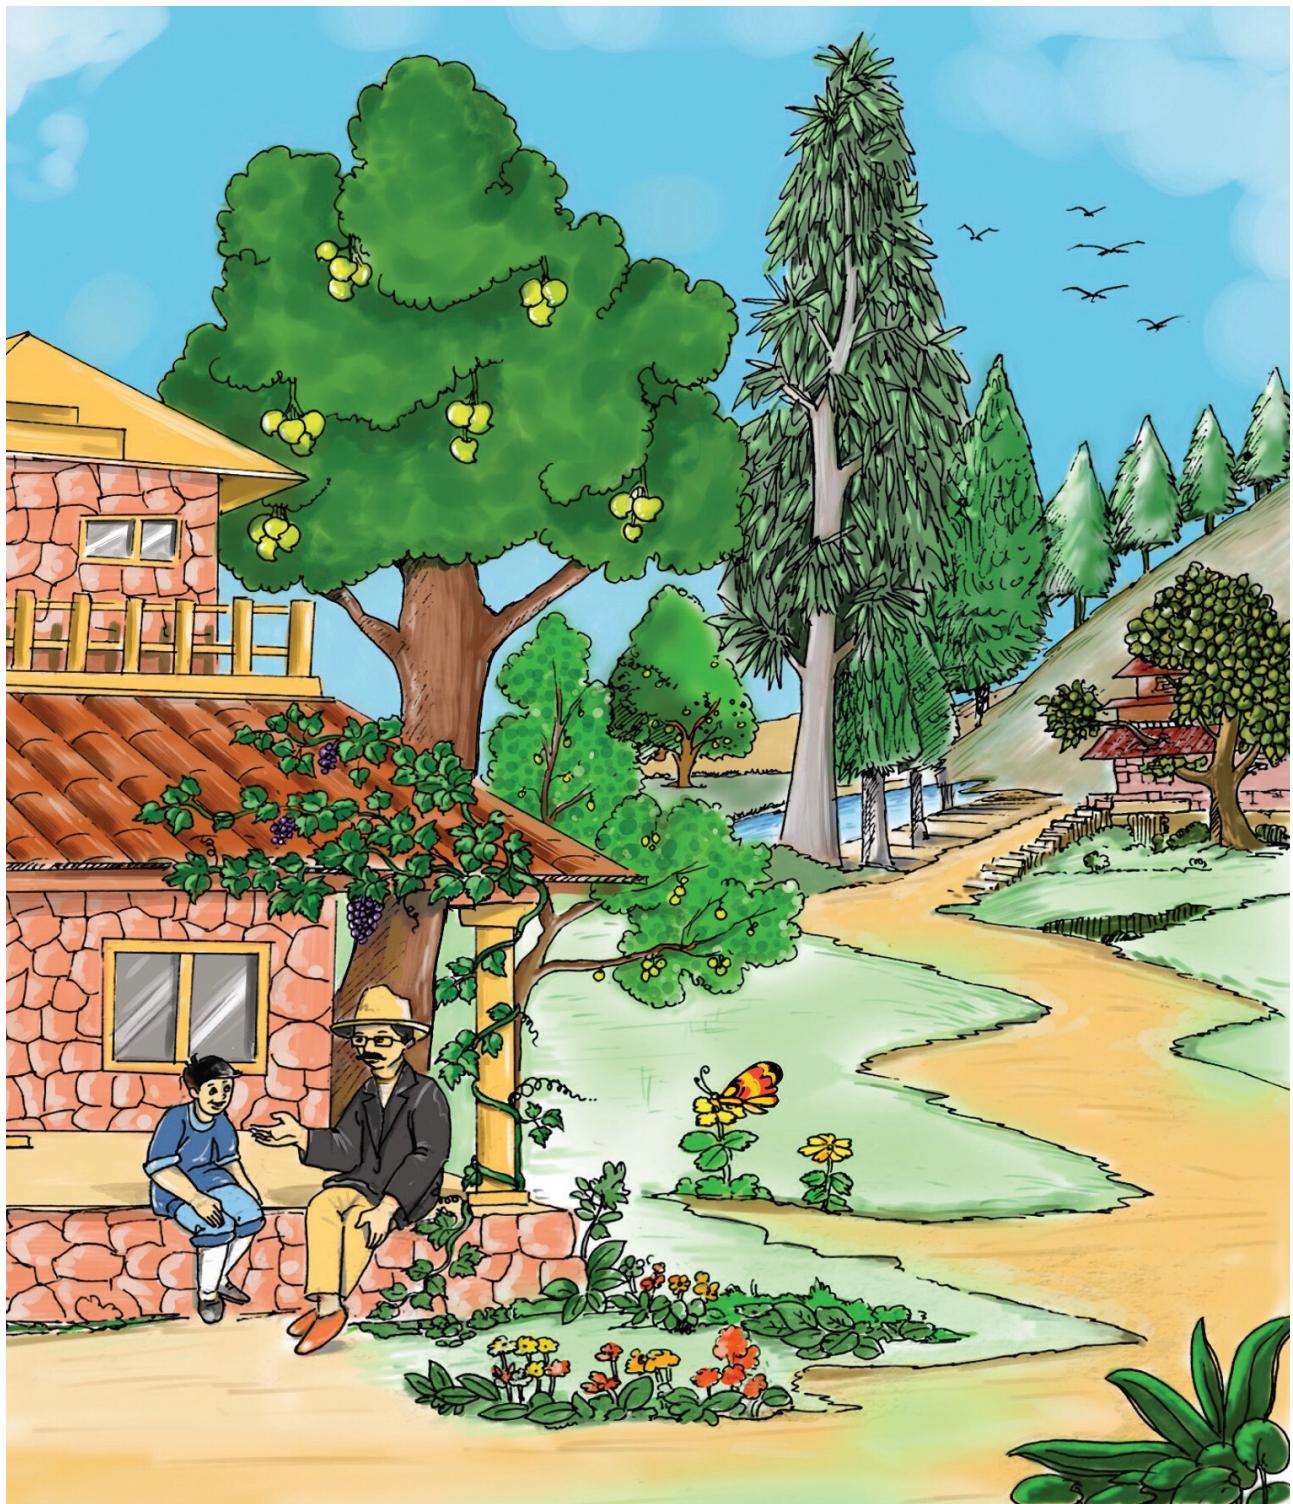

1. What are the children doing? Describe their activities.
2. Would you like to be in their place? If so what would you enjoy the most?

Section I

READING

Listen to your teacher read the first part of the story. Many things described in the story can be seen in the picture. Find and name them.

One morning while I was sitting beside Grandfather on the veranda steps, I noticed the tendril of a creeping vine trailing nearby. As we sat there in the soft sunshine of a North Indian winter, I saw the tendril moving slowly towards Grandfather. Twenty minutes later, it had crossed the step and was touching his feet.

There is probably a scientific explanation for the plant's behaviour – something to do with light and warmth perhaps – but I liked to think it moved across the steps simply because it wanted to be near Grandfather. One always felt like drawing close to him. Sometimes when I sat by myself beneath a tree, I would feel rather lonely but as soon as Grandfather joined me, the garden became a happy place. Grandfather had served many years in the Indian Forest Service and it was natural that he should know trees and like them. On his retirement, he built a bungalow on the outskirts of Dehradun, planting trees all around – lime, mango, orange and guava, also eucalyptus, jacaranda, and Persian lilacs. In the fertile Doon Valley, plants and trees grew tall and strong.

There were other trees in the compound before the house was built, including an old peepul that had forced its way through the walls of an abandoned outhouse, knocking the bricks down with its vigorous growth. Peepul trees are great show offs. Even when there is no breeze, their broad-chested, slim-waisted leaves will spin like tops determined to attract your attention and invite you into the shade. Grandmother had wanted the peepul tree cut down but Grandfather had said, 'Let it be, we can always build another outhouse.'

Grandmother didn't mind trees, but she preferred growing flowers and was constantly ordering catalogues and seeds. Grandfather helped her out with the gardening not because he was crazy about flower gardens but because he liked watching butterflies and 'There's only one way to attract butterflies,' he said, 'and that is to grow flowers for them.'

Do you know?
India has more than 17000 species of flowering plants. Tamil Nadu with more than 5000 species - nearly 1/3rd of the total flora of India - probably has the highest diversity in India.

Discuss and answer.

- When did the garden become a happy place for the author?
- What are the two reasons the author gives for the plants moving towards grandfather?
- Why does the writer think that the peepul tree is a great show off?

GLOSSARY

fertile	- able to produce a lot of plants or crops
abandoned	- left without care
vigorous	- healthy and strong

Section II

Read this section silently. Underline the most important events of the story. Discuss what you have underlined with your partner. Did you underline the same sentences? Discuss in class.

Grandfather wasn't content with growing trees in our compound. During the rains, he would walk into the jungle beyond the river-bed armed with cuttings and saplings which he would plant in the forest.

'But no one ever comes here!' I had protested, the first time we did this.
'Who's going to see them?'

'See, we're not planting them simply to improve the view,' replied Grandfather.
'We're planting them for the forest and for the animals and birds who live here and need more food and shelter.'

'Of course, men need trees too,' he added, 'To keep the desert away, to attract rain, to prevent the banks of rivers from being washed away, for fruit and flowers, leaf and seed. Yes, for timber too. But men are cutting down trees without replacing them and if we don't plant a few trees ourselves, a time will come when the world will be one great desert.'

The thought of a world without trees became a sort of nightmare to me and I helped Grandfather in his tree-planting with greater enthusiasm. And while we went about our work, he taught me a poem by George Morris:

Woodman, spare that tree!
Touch not a single bough!
In youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now.

'One day the trees will move again,' said Grandfather. 'They've been standing still for thousands of years but there was a time when they could walk about like people. Then along came an interfering busybody who cast a spell over them, rooting them to one place. But they're always trying to move. See how they reach out with their arms! And some of them, like the banyan tree with its travelling aerial roots, manage to get quite far.'

We found an island, a small rocky island in a dry river-bed. It was one of those river-beds so common in the foothills, which are completely dry in summer but flooded during the monsoon rains. A small mango tree was growing on the island. 'If a small tree can grow here,' said Grandfather, 'so can others.' As soon as the rains set in and while rivers could still be crossed, we set out with a number of tamarind, laburnum, and coral tree saplings and cuttings and spent the day planting them on the island.

Discuss and answer.

1. Why do we need trees? List four reasons that Grandfather gives.
2. Why did the author help his Grandfather plant trees?
3. What made Grandfather plant saplings on the rocky island?

GLOSSARY

protested	- opposed or disagreed
nightmare	- a frightening dream
interfering	- stopping

Section III

Take turns and read this section aloud. Work in pairs, discuss, describe and list the three main events in this section.

The monsoon season was the time for rambling about. At every turn, there was something new to see. Out of the earth and rock and leafless boughs, the magic touch of the rains had brought life and greenness. You could see the broad-leaved vines growing. Plants sprang up in the most unlikely of places. A peepul would take root in the ceiling; a mango would sprout on the window-sill. We did not like to remove them but they had to go if the house was to be kept from falling down.

'If you want to live in a tree, that's all right by me,' said Grandmother crossly. 'But I like having a roof over my head and I'm not going to have my roof brought down by the jungle.'

Then came the Second World War and I was sent away to a boarding school. During the holidays, I went to live with my father in Delhi. Meanwhile my grandparents sold the house and went to England. Two or three years later, I too went to England and was away from India for several years.

Some years later, I returned to Dehradun. After first visiting the old house – it hadn't changed much – I walked out of town towards the river-bed. It was February. As I looked across the dry water-course, my eye was immediately caught by the spectacular red blooms of the coral blossom. In contrast with the dry river-bed, the island was a small green paradise. When I went up to the trees, I noticed that some squirrels were living in them and a koel, a crow pheasant, challenged me with a mellow 'who-are-you, who-are-you.'

But the trees seemed to know me; they whispered among themselves and beckoned me nearer. And looking around I noticed that other smaller trees, wild plants and grasses had sprung up under their protection. Yes, the trees we had planted long ago had multiplied. They were walking again. In one small corner of the world, Grandfather's dream had come true.

Discuss and answer.

1. What did Grandmother feel about trees growing in the house?
2. Why did the author leave town?
3. How did Grandfather's dream come true?
4. Describe what the author saw when he went back to the island.

GLOSSARY

rambling	-	wandering
sprout	-	when seeds begin to grow small plants
spectacular	-	eye-catching
beckoned	-	to signal (someone) with your hand to ask the person to come closer or follow

READ AND UNDERSTAND

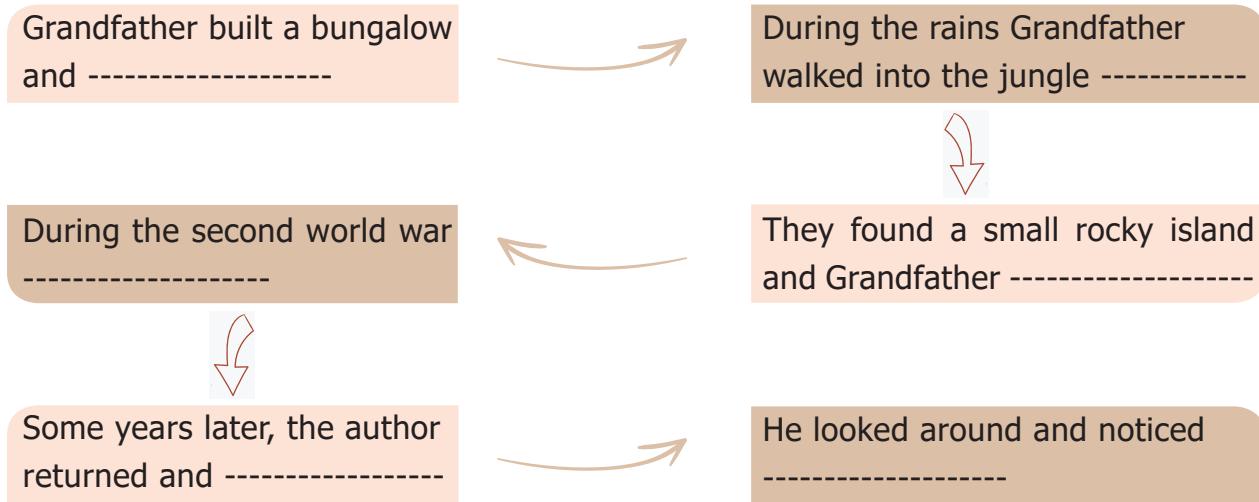

A. Tick the most appropriate option.

1. According to the author the tendril was moving towards grandfather because it
 - a. needed light and warmth.
 - b. did not like the light and warmth.
 - c. wanted to be near Grandfather.
 - d. wanted to escape from the winter.
2. Grandmother had wanted the peepul tree cut down because
 - a. she did not like trees.
 - b. she wanted to grow flowers.

The Apple Tree and the Farmer

Once upon a time there was a farmer. He lived in a village, up in the hills, beside a forest. In his farm where he grew many kinds of vegetables, he also had an apple tree. For many years the farmer and his family had enjoyed the tastiest apples from the tree. As a boy, the farmer and his friends played under the apple tree. They played hide and seek around the tree. They climbed the tree and swung on it and in season they plucked and ate the apples.

As the years passed the boy grew into a man. He took over the farm and continued to enjoy the fruits from the tree. In the meantime many small animals and birds started living in the tree. The man's children and their friends started playing under it. The large and shady apple tree now grew old and was bearing fewer and fewer fruits. It was nice to sit under its shade in the summer but nothing grew under it. The farmer felt the space could be used to grow some vegetables. He also felt he could use the wood to build a new room in his house. Therefore, he decided to cut the tree. He did not think about the wonderful times he and his friends had playing around the tree or the delicious apples they ate. Rather he felt the tree had outlived its usefulness and should be cut down.

When the farmer took his axe and began chopping the tree, all the little animals, birds and insects that lived in the tree came rushing down. They started running around in alarm, chirping and squeaking all over the place. The farmer was adamant. He raised his axe and the uproar grew.

The farmer, however, forgot his childhood and his animal friends. He began to chop the tree harder. All the little animals became desperate, and wanted to protect the apple tree at any cost. They ran around in circles making a huge commotion.

This brought the children out. The farmer's daughter and her friends began to plead with him. They gathered around the farmer and said, "Please don't cut the tree. We play here just like you did. These small animals live here. If you cut the tree, where will they go? You can enjoy the shade when you become old. It is a beautiful tree."

All of a sudden, the farmer noticed a small fruit hanging from a branch. It was an apple and looked as delicious as the ones he ate as a boy. He plucked it and bit into the juicy fruit. The memories of the fun he had had as a boy came rushing back. When his daughter saw the changed expression in her father's face, she started pleading harder.

The farmer put down his axe. He understood that the tree was home to many lovely animals and provided them with so many things. He wanted his little girl to have the childhood that he had had. He threw away the axe and said to his daughter, "I promise that I will never cut this tree. You and your friends will have your tree and your playground."

A. Read the following statements. Say True or False.

1. The farmer had spent his childhood playing under the tree.
2. The farmer felt the space could be used to build a house.
3. The apple tree requested the farmer not to cut it.
4. All the little animals were happy about the farmer's decision.
5. The apple tree was home for all the little animals.

B. Identify the speaker / character.

1. Please don't cut the tree.
2. You can enjoy the shade when you become old.
3. I promise that I will never cut this tree.

C. Choose the right option.

1. The animals became worried because
 - a. there was heavy rain.
 - b. the farmer began to chop the tree.
 - c. the farmer chased them away.
 - d. the tree became old.
2. The farmer's daughter and her friends came out because
 - a. they wanted to play under the tree.
 - b. they heard the commotion of the creatures.
 - c. the farmer called them.
 - d. they heard the farmer's voice.
3. The farmer promised that he would
 - a. grow more trees.
 - b. provide shelter to all the little animals.
 - c. not cut the tree.
 - d. be thankful to the children.

D. Read the passage and answer the following.

All of a sudden, the farmer noticed a small fruit hanging from a branch. It was an apple and looked as delicious as the ones he ate as a boy. He plucked it and bit into the juicy fruit. The memories of the fun he had had as a boy came rushing back. When his daughter saw the changed expression in her father's face, she started pleading harder.

1. What did the farmer notice?
2. What made him recall his childhood?
3. Why did his daughter start pleading?

E. Rearrange the jumbled sentences.

1. He did not listen to their cries.
2. The farmer continued cutting the tree.
3. His childhood memories made him realize his mistake.
4. He decided to cut the tree thinking that it was useless.
5. The taste of the apple brought back his childhood memories.
6. The farmer had an old apple tree in his garden.
7. All the little animals in the tree pleaded with him.
8. He spent all his childhood playing under the apple tree.

F. Think and answer.

1. Which part of the story do you like? Why?
2. If the little animals become homeless what will happen?
3. What made the farmer realise his mistakes?

Poem

I Dream Of Spices

My mother would say:

"Little boy Raj...

Go to Muthu's

and get some

cinnamon, betel leaves and ginger and garlic."

And so I go to the shops

singing all the way

and when Muthu asks me

what I'd want

I rattle off a list:

"Sesame seeds, onions

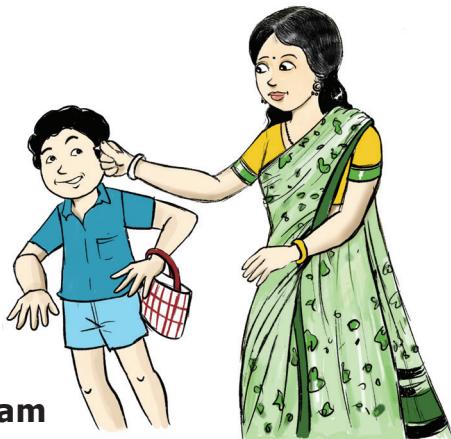

tomatoes and pickles"

And back home,

Mother twists my ears

Ouch!

Spices of India

In India, spices are the soul of food. When we think of spices, we think of tasty and healthy food. Many of the spices in our food are added to balance nutrition and to keep us healthy. They add flavour and nutrients to dishes without fat or calories. Spices like cumin, mustard, pepper, cloves, fennel, cinnamon and turmeric are very important in Indian food.

When it comes to Indian food, the first thing that comes to many people's minds is probably 'Spicy curry'. People say curry comes from the Tamil word 'kari'. In Tamil, kari means sauce. It is something that is cooked with a roasted or powdered mixture of spices, condiments and herbs. This mixture of spices can be different in different places. It can be mild or it can be spicy and pungent. Flowers, leaves, roots, bark, seeds and bulbs, are combined in many different ways to produce a great variety of flavours: sweet, sharp, hot, sour, spicy, aromatic, tart, mild, fragrant or pungent. When cooked with rice, meat, fish, or vegetables, the spices give the dish a special, savoury taste. It makes us want to eat more.

But apart from delicious food, spices also bring to mind adventure. Many of the most exciting voyages of modern history were made to conquer the spice trade and the race to become its master. The colonization of the Americas and Asia had its roots in the spice trade. In 1492 Columbus went West to find India and pepper but ran into America and the chilli. Vasco da Gama, six years later, went around Africa to reach Kozhikode, the home of pepper. These voyages ended the very profitable trade that the Arabs and Romans had built up over the centuries. They set the stage for a new world.

How do you think the expansion of the spice trade set the stage for a new world?

Spices were always an important part of India's trade. Spices were traded with Mesopotamia, China, Sumeria, Egypt and Arabia, along with perfumes and textiles as far back as 7000 years ago much before the Greek and Roman civilisations. Indian epics and in writings dating back to the Roman Empire in the 1st century CE talk about the cloves. Thousands of years ago the great masters of Ayurveda had listed the use of spices for cooking and in medicines.

While these spices are readily available today, there was a time when people risked their lives to get Indian spices. During the Middle Ages, a pound of ginger was worth the price of a sheep. A pound of mace was equal to the price of three sheep or half the price of a cow. Pepper was the crown jewel of all spices.

What are those spices that the world wanted so badly?

Cardamom, cloves, ginger, mace and nutmeg were some of the other spices that left Indian shores to flavour the world's kitchen.

Using spices in cooking has a long history. It may go back as far as 52,000 years ago. Though we cannot know for sure how men came to use spices, it is quite possible that it was by chance. However, spices have played a vital role in our food now for a long time. In earlier centuries, spices were not easily available and were very expensive. Thus, spice traders became rich. Pepper and cinnamon no longer cost a fortune. However, while they seem to have lost their glory and value, they will never lose their place in a kitchen. Especially an Indian one!

Black Pepper

Black pepper also known as 'Black gold' was the most prized spice traded from the Kerala coast. Indians have been using black pepper for a very long time. Farmers began growing it in around 5000 years ago. And exported it to North and West Asia. The trade soon spread to Greece, Rome, Europe, and China, and also became popular in the Islamic empire. Recipes from rich Roman households show the value of the spice in ancient Rome. The Romans sent 120 ships a year from Egypt to trade with India and bring back enormous quantities of pepper.

HISTORY OF THE SPICES

3000 BCE to 200 BCE

- Arabs traded spices and herbs among early civilizations.

1200 to 1500 CE

- Europeans explore passages to the East Indies.

1500 to 1700 CE

- English exploration begins.

200 BCE to 1200 CE

- The Romans control the trade.

1400 to 1600 CE

- Wars for control of the spice trade break out.

1600 to 1900 CE

- Americans enter the spice trade.

Today

We export pepper, cardamom, ginger, chilli, turmeric, coriander and cumin.

Cinnamon

Indians have been using cinnamon for a long, long time. The Chinese wrote about it in 2700 BCE. Cinnamon not only adds great flavour to food, it also helps to preserve it.

People from other parts of the world appreciated the fragrance and taste of cinnamon. They wanted it too, and were willing to pay a good price for it. The Greeks, Romans, and Egyptians bought cinnamon from India. In the Middle Ages, the Venetians grew rich by taxing the cinnamon that was brought from India to Europe and the Mediterranean.

One of the earliest plants that Indians grew was sugarcane. It is valuable both for providing energy and for its great taste.

A. Answer the following questions.

1. Why do we add spices to food?
2. Which spices are used a lot in Indian food?
3. Which parts of a plant are collected as spices?
4. What are the uses of spices?

Flash news of an escaped monkey

At 10 a.m today, a monkey escaped from the zoo. The zoo keeper was entering the cage to feed the animal when he saw it breaking through the fence. Quickly, he rang up the police station to report the escape. If you see the monkey you must inform the police on the following number.180345778

Turtle Walk Chennai 2017

The Students' Sea Turtle Conservation Network (SSTCN) is a voluntary group mainly comprising students who have been working in the beaches of Chennai since 1987 trying to conserve and create awareness about the endangered Olive Ridley sea turtle. They nest on our beaches at night, between January and March every year. During this season we walk in the beaches every night looking for their eggs which we collect and relocate to a safe place. When the turtle hatchlings emerge after 45 days, we release them safely into the sea. On Friday and Saturday nights we conduct a walk for interested people. We use this opportunity to interact with them and create awareness about the plight of an endangered species and the state of the environment. The walks are not for entertainment.

Unit – II

Nandhu and the Lamp

One morning, as Nandhu was walking to school, a big truck went past him. The truck went over a bump in the road and a box fell down. The box broke open. The truck kept going and was soon gone.

Out of the broken box there fell a small brass lamp. It looked just like the magic lamp that was drawn in Nandhu's storybook. It was small and made of brass. It had a handle and a cover. Nandhu wondered if this was a magic lamp too. He decided to take it home and try it out.

"Where did you get it?" said his mother, "It looks like a lamp."

"It fell off a truck. Is it a magic lamp? It looks just like the one in the book," said Nandhu. As he wiped the lamp, Nandhu noticed a small button on the side. When he pressed it a bright blue light came on and lit the whole room.

Unit – III

Spices

Red peppers have a lot of vitamin C which helps the body fight infections. Paprika (red chilli powder) made from red peppers has more vitamin C than even lemon juice. Only you cannot eat too much of it!

To get 1 pound (450 g) of dry saffron (kungumapoo in Tamil) it requires up to 75,000 flowers and 20 hours of labour. That is why it is so expensive.

Mints are not only given at the end of a meal in restaurants to help refresh your breath, but herbs like peppermint help settle nausea and upset stomach .
